

Rāma and Lakṣmaṇa leave with Sage Viśvāmītra to protect his yajña.

Lord Rāma lifted Mārica with an arrow, swirling him in the air, and dropped him in the ocean; this was a miracle of miracles. Subāhu and others were killed.

Rāma stepped on the stone and Ahalyā, rich in her austerity, arose. He bowed to Ahalyā and humbly said, “Rāma, am I.”
